

Dummy Lines Through The Longleaf: A History Of The Sawmills And Logging Railroads Of Southwest Mississippi By Gilbert H. Hoffman

Dummy Lines Through The Longleaf: A History Of The Sawmills And Logging Railroads Of Southwest Mississippi My father was a timber man for 60 years starting around 1930: This book is a complete accounting of the timber industry within 50 miles of my house: My dad actually worked for the Morton family in the 1940's: It was part of a 1200 acre track that was sold to the Hartman family in Brookhaven, A train track was built here and it ran right through my front yard, I feel like I am reading the history of my 200 acres and what life was like for my dad in the 30's and 40's, Dummy Lines Through The Longleaf: A History Of The Sawmills And Logging Railroads Of Southwest Mississippi

.

.

. They owned 85000 acres of land in this area. I found my home place in this book. The road for the tracks are still visible. A good read for a local person