

Satan And Mara: Christian And Buddhist Symbols Of Evil [Studies In Th History Of Religions Xxvii
By James W. Boyd ,

Trained in the comparative study of religions James Boyd lived and studied in India Sri Lanka Iran and Japan as well as several European countries. He often said "Who could resist such an invitation" when asked to live in these different cultures. Over the course of 40 years he photographed and compiled stories of the people he met and the places he visited: When he retired from Colorado State University as Distinguished Teaching Scholar he turned to poetry as a way of telling the stories behind his photos, A native of Wisconsin he lives in Fort Collins with his wife enjoys numerous family members and friends and an enviable view of the mountains,

Satan And Mara: Christian And Buddhist Symbols Of Evil [Studies In Th History Of Religions Xxvii.

. He has received numerous awards and fellowships